BY MOLLIE HUNCOEN.

An informal dancing party was given Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. A. M. Baker, in honor of Miss Leontine Gaspard, of Portland, who is the guest of Mrs. Baker. About 15 members of the younger set enjoyed the entertainment furnished.

Mrs. W. F. Bowen has as her house guest Miss Mary H. Mudgett, of Tacoma. Miss Mudgett is a very charming young woman and has been noticed with several pleasant attentions during her stay. She will probably remain several weeks longer.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hockstein and Mr. and Mrs. Scott Page and children enjoyed an outing at Willhoit the last week-end.

Miss Grace Spang was hostess to a party of friends last week in Dallas in honor of Miss Mabel Grant, who was a bride of the week. The party was met at Salem by Mr. and Mrs. Spang in their launch. The guests were Ava Coad, Edith Catherwood, Winnie Griffo, Marie Hargrove and Marie Griffin, of Dallas, and Edna Townsend, Vivian Hargrove and Lois Martin of Salem.

Among Salem people who have been among those recently sharing in the outing pleasures of Newport are: Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Barnett, Robert Pearce and family, Jessup Strang, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. McKee, J. E. McCall and daughters, Miss Maude Savage and Miss Ruth Bush, who was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George O. Savage, at the Savage's Nye Beach cottage, Cherry city.

Mrs. E. L. Scott, of Underwood, Wash., is the guest of her mother, Mrs. E. E. Tracy.

Mrs. Edna Daily, who has been a nurse in the sanatorium at Milwaukee, Ore., for several months, has returned to Salem. Mrs. Daily makes Salem her headquarters.

Truman Northrup, son of Dean Northrup of McMinnville college, is the guest of Prof. and Mrs. W. E. Fargo. Mr. Northrup is in Salem representing the Preer Cutlery & Tool company, of Portland.

Sixteen autos carried Salem people to the Taylor ranch, north of Mehama, Sunday, where they spent the day enjoying a picnic lunch and in viewing the surrounding country.

In the party were: Dr. W. H. Byrd, Miss Winnifred Byrd, Dr. and Mrs. Roy Byrd, Dr. Prince Byrd, Miss Minnetta Magers, A. G. Magers, Mrs. Frank Magers, Mr. and Mrs. David Eyre and children, Miss Helena Schuber of Seattle, Mr. and Mrs. Hager, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Smith, Mrs. Loveless, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Deekbach and family, Dr. and Mrs. Carlton Smith, J. P. Rodgers, daughters Eleanor, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Benson.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lamb presided at a dinner party last night honoring Hal D. Patton, whose marriage to Miss Edith Tidcombe of Portland will be celebrated shortly. Surrounding the table, which was centered with pink roses, were Mr. Patton, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Lytle and their guest, David Hill of Pendleton, Mrs. E. C. Small, Mrs. George Pearce and daughters, Helen and Dorothy, Miss Elizabeth Corbett, Miss Cathryn Jahn, Miss Aline High, Edward Baker, Sydney Elliott, Jake Solomon and Rick Dearborn.

Miss Ruth Reed and Miss Eva Pease of Jefferson were the guests of Miss Minnetta Magers and other friends in Salem yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Crow, A. G. Ma-gers and Mrs. Frank Magers left today on an automobile trip to Crater lake. They will go over the McKenzie pass to Klamath Falls, returning via Medford.

Mrs. B. B. Houston and Miss Florence Houston will spend two days in Portland, leaving this morning.

The members of Heidelberg guild of the Reformed church held a successful lawn social at the parsonage home of Rev. and Mrs. W. G. Lienkaemper, on Marion street, last night. Over 50 persons called, assisting in contributing funds for the purchasing of a piano for the church.

Serving cakes, ices and home-made candies were Miss Magdalena Taffi, Miss Lydia Leahr, Miss Gertrude Lienkaemper, Miss Rose Andregg and Miss Stella Fritz.

Miss Meiba Joslyn, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Joslyn, of Portland, and Leo M. Meeker, of Hubbard, Ore., were married at Newport Monday evening. They will probably reside in Hubbard.

Mr. and Mrs. Max O. Buren and children returned yesterday from Seaside where they have been occupying a cottage for the past fifteen days.

Mr. and Mrs. James McGilchrist are home from their honeymoon trip. Their marriage occurred in New York City July 20th. Mrs. McGilchrist being Miss Elsie Park, of Scotland.

BUCKAROOS FACE CHARGE.

Goldendale, Wash., July 30.—Sheriff Fred Smith returned to Goldendale yesterday morning with Bert (Bulldog) Kelly and David Yorkes, two men wanted on horse stealing charges in Klickitat county, who were captured in Adams county last Saturday by Sheriff A. C. Janen, of Bixville.

Kelly and his companion are said to have taken three horses belonging to John Thompson, a farmer. They successfully eluded pursuit until they reached Lind, Wash.

In order to evade further, Kelly says he attached floats made out of beer kegs to his back, swimming his outfit across the Columbia river at Priest rapids. The men are both buckaroos about 35.

WOMAN AND YOUTH ARRESTED FOR FORGERY.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 30.—Booked on charges of forgery, Mrs. Grace Kircher, aged 42, and Earl L. Mathewson, 21, are under arrest here today, and with their capture the police believe they have interrupted a series of "mystery" letters, the writer of which boasted of cashing spurious checks and defied the police.

According to the police, Mrs. Kircher admitted cashing certain checks she declared Mathewson wrote. She claims Mathewson wrote the letters. The police believe they will trace to the pair checks upon which $300 was realized.

The arrests were made last night while Mrs. Kircher and Mathewson were boarding a Southern Pacific train.

Hiker Finds Home Barred.

Cottage Grove, Ore., July 30.—To return from a hiking trip barefooted, unshaven and without a change of underclothing to find his wife gone, the house and trunks containing the necessary implements and clothing for making himself presentable securely locked was the aggravating experience related by C. B. Stahlman, Supervisor of Schools.

Mrs. Stahlman was to have met her husband at Marshfield, but they missed connections.

PERSONALS

T. A. Gammis, jr., and Ben R. Little, prominent orchardists of The Dalles, returning from a motor trip in California, were at the Marion yesterday. They saw Mt. Lassen during a period of eruption recently.

Miss L. L. Clark, of Weiser, Idaho, and Miss Doris C. Clark, of Berkeley, motorists, are guests at the Marion.

B. E. Maling, of Portland, freight agent of the Northwestern line, was a Salem visitor yesterday.

Mrs. Andrew Vercler is in the east. Before her return in October she expects to visit relatives in Nebraska and Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Turner, of Rose-dale, left for Portland this morning to visit relatives.

CLOVER SEED YIELD WILL BE REDUCED

Midge and Root Borer do Much Damage, Many Clover Fields Will Produce No Seed Whatever.

That in most parts of the valley there will scarcely be one bushel of clover seed to 10 acres is the opinion of Luther J. Chapin, who has just returned from a tour of the eastern part of the valley extending over Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. During the past few weeks he has been studying the clover seed problem and finds that the crop is practically ruined, and that a majority of the farmers think they are going to have a good crop when in fact they have none whatever.

The clover fields in general are bad throughout the eastern part of the valley, mostly from two causes—clover midge and clover root borer, both of which have been working in the fields. In many cases either pest would be enough to destroy the crops.

As a result of a news item in the Capital Journal calling attention to the fact that Mr. Chapin would inspect clover fields, G. W. Hunsaker telephoned him to have him inspect his 70-acre field. The county agriculturist went out to Mr. Hunsaker's field and found it in the finest shape possible. In this instance there were very few midges or borers found. The crop will be ready to cut next week. The fine stand is the result of pasturing sheep on it until May 15 and then clipping it. It is expected that a good yield of seed will be obtained.

AUSTRIANS BEATEN

war, the military authorities were rushing troops to both frontiers today.

The mobilization had not been entirely completed but it was expected 100,000 men would be ready for service by Friday.

At the same time frontier fortifications were being strengthened and railroads, bridges and tunnels mined, so as to delay an advance into the country as much as possible.

A run was still in progress on the banks today.

Brussels was still the center for the anti-war campaign the socialists were waging. Their leaders declared they were making rapid progress with their work.

Story of Battles Denied.

Vienna, July 30.—The government issued a statement tonight declaring there had been only unimportant skirmishes between Austrian and Serbian troops.

It was asserted that the Serbians' attempt to dynamite the Semlin-Belgrade bridge was frustrated and that two Serbian Danube steamers were destroyed.

The Austrian occupation of Belgrade was not mentioned.

Precautions Along Highway Urged.

The need for care in preventing forest fires in the Columbia river gorge was emphasized in a letter sent to C. S. Chapman, secretary of the Oregon Forest Fire association, by Samuel C. Lancaster, supervising engineer of the Columbia highway, yesterday. It was asserted that the county authorities in charge of the work are doing everything possible to safeguard that district against fires and co-operation to the fullest extent is asked.

LATE YESTERDAY

Long Beach, Cal.—Barr Gage, aged 7, fell four stories through a light well to his death.

Los Angeles, Cal.—The total registration for Los Angeles county was reported to be 265,492.

Los Angeles, Cal.—H. L. Buckley, 49, a laborer, took chloroform and was taken to a hospital in a dying condition.

Los Angeles, Cal.—President D. M. Duffy of the state prison board advocated a penitentiary for southern California.

Douglas, Ariz.—T. J. Brice, a rancher, and his two daughters were seriously wounded when his son, aged 4, knocked over a shotgun, both barrels of which were discharged.

VICTOR POINT ITEMS.

(Capital Journal Special Service.)

Victor Point, July 29.—Lon Olson had the misfortune of breaking his leg between the knee and hip Sunday while he and Elmer King were driving home from Salem in the latter's car. They tried to pass another car and buggy on a narrow place in the road, but skidded into a ditch, overturning and doing considerable damage to the car. Elmer escaped without an injury.

Jake Doerfler was first to thresh in this neighborhood, some of his wheat going three bushels by weight.

Mrs. Floyd Humphrey and Miss Thompson are cooking for King's threshing crew.

The Women's Ideal club were well represented at Newport Sunday. All report a very enjoyable time.

Jas. Doerfler had a piece of oats going 90 bushels to the acre by weight.

The Misses Lizzie Krenz and Ava Darby are cooking for the Krenz and Fisher crew.

CLAIMS EMPLOYER WITHHELD WAGES

Los Angeles, Cal., July 30.—Charged with withholding the wages of Fred Andrews, an employee, Police Judge Warren Williams and his father, C. B. Williams, will appear for trial here August 6.

The men were arrested after suit had been filed by Judge Williams against Editor George R. Young of the Los Angeles Record, charging criminal libel, following the publication in the Record of an article intimating that Williams had "exploited" Andrews, who formerly was a patient at the county infirmary farm.

Williams' case against the Record was resumed today, efforts being made to fill the jury box. One juror had been passed when the case was again taken up.

western growers. George C. Gaede, attached to the New York office of the Northwestern Fruit Exchange of Portland, sailed from New York on May 30th for Buenos Ayres, and is still in South America, where he is meeting with most encouraging success. Deals involving over 30,000 boxes of Northwestern apples have been closed, with other deals pending, which cables received by the Portland headquarters of the Exchange from Gaede, state will be closed in another day or two.

The most important feature of the whole business is that for the first time Northwestern fruit growers will get the full benefit of the sales in these markets. Buenos Ayres and Rio are both notoriously high-price markets, and for years, New York and London middlemen have monopolized this trade, buying at the cheapest possible prices from growers in the Northwest, and turning the deals at a very handsome profit for themselves. While this is perfectly legitimate business, the Exchange regards this business in exactly the same light it does the European business; namely, that the straightest lines between producers and consumers, consistent with practical methods, promise maximum results for producers and the best service and protection for consumers.

In both Rio and Buenos Ayres, boxed apples have in the past been selling as high as $16.00 per box gold, while the same fruit has netted the growers out here only ordinary prices. This condition is not conducive to the good of either the consumer or the Northwestern farmer, and members of the Exchange are therefore congratulating themselves on the opening of these valuable markets that have been closed them, except indirect, heretofore.

Pursuant to its policy which has made it the best known and most influential factor in the foreign boxed apple markets, the Exchange has, through its representative now in South America, established a branch sales office in Buenos Ayres, under a salaried resident manager, who will be on the job throughout the active season each year and safeguard the Exchange's interests.

The Exchange's cabled advices are to the effect that these South American markets, while valuable, are quite limited, and that engagements have already been made for practically the entire season's requirements and that a warning should be given against consignments to those markets unless an outlet is fully arranged for in advance on the other end. It is stated that unless those conditions are fully met, disaster awaits the unwary shipper. As freight rates from the Pacific Coast to Buenos Ayres are very high (about $1.75 per box, through via New York) only those with the very best connections and detailed knowledge of the financial and business condition prevalent in those countries should attempt this traffic.

Long may the hot wave—in the east.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Tale of
The Withered
Leaves.

Mouse Could Hide Under Them.

"SO mamma took you both to the park this afternoon?" said daddy as Jack and Evelyn in pajamas and nightie climbed into his lap, clamoring for a story. "Did you notice the leaves on the trees?"

"Why, of course, daddy!" replied Evelyn. "You are trying to make fun of us."

"And were they nice and green and dancing in the breeze?" persisted daddy, with a merry twinkle in his eye.

"Yes," cut in Jack, "and it was so shiny and just bully out there, and a boy was sailing a boat in the lake and fell in all over!"

"Well, children," he said, "daddy didn't just know what to tell you to night till you told him of your walk in the park. Then he thought of the leaves along later, when they're all withered, and how much use they'll be then."

"Ah, daddy," interrupted Jack, "what good are withered leaves?"

"I'm going to tell you, Jack," daddy replied. "Once there were thousands and thousands of green leaves dancing the summer away in a big grove. It was very pleasant there. The sunshine stole through and made them very brilliant and good to look at, and when they were thirsty there was the warm rain to drink, and the birds made their nests among them and used to sing pretty songs to them out of gratitude."

"But by and by one of the little leaves, who was always looking for trouble, talked with a breath of the north wind that happened to stray into the grove toward evening. When it had gone this little leaf, very much worried over what the north breeze had whispered to it, told the others, too, and they were all very sad and hoped it wasn't true, for the north breeze told the little leaf that the autumn was coming and he would be withered and fall from the tree and the others with him."

"Sure enough, the fall came, and Jack Frost painted the little leaves in lovely colors. Then they felt better, for, though they were a little chilly, they thought they were too beautiful to die. But the north wind came along one night with a howl and a blast, and in the morning all the leaves lay torn and withered upon the ground."

"Jack thought they wouldn't be of any use any more, but the little field mice, chased by hungry owls, could hide under them. Animals and birds could use them to line their burrows and nests. They would lie through the winter to protect the tender shoots and flowers getting ready to bloom in the spring, and when the spring rains fell upon them after a while they would be absorbed into the ground to help nourish new plants and trees."

"And now the sandman's waiting. You must both run to bed."
